

HOTEL Le Lavoisier

Welcome to the Hotel Le Lavoisier, an establishment with Parisian charm and a unique décor, which combines a classical and contemporary style. A Haussmann-style building situated in the street of the same name, its decor offers a very modern style with refined lines and soft colours. Le Lavoisier is ideally located for visiting and discovering Paris of fashion, culture and the arts. The hotel is named after Laurent Antoine Lavoisier, the 18th century French chemist, responsible for the famous law “Nothing is lost, nothing is created. Everything is transformed” and the “Elementary Treatise of Chemistry”. Situated between Saint Augustin church and Place de la Madeleine, near Rue du Faubourg Saint Honoré and the Champs-Élysées, the Hotel Le Lavoisier offers a special charm which is both intimate and modern, in the image of the Right Bank.
